1.0 AMA PRA Category 1 Credit™

Course Description:

Many findings in medicine have been identified through real-world data of large numbers of patients found in a well-organized, long-term clinical registry. Identifying an appropriate and previously unstudied research question that might be answered via registry data is a specific skill for a faculty member not often taught. Evaluating a specific outcome of a disease or condition for a population might be best done using this technique. In this session, the faculty will provide an overview of the resources available at CMU for faculty and learners, and methods for performing research on the databases.
