Explore the Scottish cities of Edinburgh and Glasgow and learn about the birth of the modern European world! Discover in Edinburgh how Scotland's union with England in 1707 fostered a new civil society that birthed the Scottish Enlightenment. Uncover how the twin forces of industrialization and empire transformed Glasgow from a sleepy small town into the second city of the British Empire. And investigate the development and importance of what it meant to be British and Scottish in the nineteenth century. You'll play an active role in investigating the past, researching the ways Scots participated in the forging of Great Britain and the British Empire and how that transformed Scotland as a nation.

We'll spend two weeks in two of Scotland's largest cities, soaking up the thriving day- and night-life that characterizes these contemporary spaces. We'll interact with local students and professors eager to share their knowledge with us. From the latest in fine dining to snacks at a centuries-old pub, we'll enjoy Scottish food culture in all of its glory. And we'll breathe in the society and culture of two beautiful cities while learning about some of the most important events in modern British and European history.
