According to information received from the National Student Loan Data System (NSLDS), you have loans that were discharged due to total and permanent disability. A borrower whose loan(s) are cancelled because of total and permanent disability may later receive federal financial aid funds if he or she meets all other eligibility requirements. In order to regain eligibility for the federal loan program you must: 1) indicate the applicable disability discharge, 2) provide a letter from a legally licensed physician, Doctor of Medicine (DM) or Doctor of Osteopathic Medicine (DO), certifying that you are “able to engage in substantial gainful activity,” and 3) acknowledge the statement(s) by providing your signature and date. The physician must be designated as a DM or DO. Please Note: The U.S. Department of Education defines “substantial gainful activity” as a level of work performed for pay that involves doing significant physical or mental activities or a combination of both.
